Arabic Learner

* Learn which Arabic letters are the easiest to identify and which ones are the most difficult. * Learn the sound of Arabic letters with a fun, interactive game. * Hear the phonetics of the letters so that you can sound them out yourself. * Find out how much time you have to play the game. * Have fun with various games to enhance your learning experience. Arabic Learner Interface: Arabic Learner Features: * Memorize and recall the letters by the colors of the letters and sounds. * Practice reading without memorizing phonetics and phonemes. * Learn how to pronounce Arabic letters with a phonetic printouts or an audio file. * Let the application read the Arabic Alphabet for you. * See the pronunciation of the letters on the screen in real time. * Find out how much time you have to play the game. * Have fun with various games to enhance your learning experience. I do believe that you can translate to English by adding few things. Add an option to enable games in Arabic. Add an option to enable "Learn the pronunciation of the letters" and one can teach a child in different languages. So, just make the latest version of your software. Do it and enjoy your work. More info: Arabic Learner App A: Add an option to enable games in Arabic. "Enable" here doesn't mean that the user has to play the games. It just means that in the list of games the user can choose one (or all) to play. On a related note, I'm not sure what you mean when you say When the user sees a game he/she can choose one of these so that the user can start teaching their child in different languages. The options for running a specific game aren't predicated on whether the game is enabled or disabled. A: This is a great idea! I think you should add an option to enable the "Learn the pronunciation of the letters" option which would allow you to speak the letters to your user. It's hard to get used to the Arabic alphabet without speaking the letters. I also think you should add an option to play an Egyptian Arabic song if the user asks for the song that can be played (not just on page). Here is a link to something similar:
