Edit the input file Change the IP address of the remote computer into the IP address of your computer. Here is an example: Network. On the remote computer, open "C:\Program Files (x86)\Autodesk\Autocad\app\amcd.app" and edit "netlogon etlogon.ini" or "netlogon\pwd.dat". Find the network information Find the IP address under "NetTable", and change it into your computer's IP address. If your IP address is 192.168.0.1, then the IP address of "NetTable" should be 192.168.0.0. Change the IP address of the remote computer into your computer's IP address Save the file and quit Autocad. Then, on the remote computer, the password prompt is changed to your password. Important note: After using the IP address above, Autocad could be downloaded from the net again. The "NetTable" or "NetServer" in the netlogon.ini or pwd.dat file could be changed back to the old IP address. If this problem happened, you need to change it back. Thank you. Autodesk Autocad Team. I can understand making b2b plans and maybe even making marketing plans. In our business we do a great job of branding ourselves and because of that we are able to buy advertising. But really putting out a whole b2b plan and marketing plan and saying we need to make more than just 2.6 million sales per year and say here is where we are going to target our efforts and what type of acquisitions we are looking to make. In my opinion that is a bit overkill but you are the best people to make that decision. We need to make 4-5 Million per year to break even and continue to grow. But we won't know if we have really made the investment of time and money until we are doing a little over 5 Million in revenue per year. Even then we are not really doing it right. It is so important to find the right partners and retailers for us. I think it's amazing how many internet "business-to-business" and "business-to-consumer" marketers out there (and not so many great B2B buyers), you have to spend more than I would like to.
