The new X2200 supports very rare touchscreen interfaces like MCI and K5550, one of the first GC with a full QWERTY with optional self-bootable storage in original case with all keys, and the last version which was available on the market. Regular K5550 looks like a block, but it has a working keyboard in the cover. The keyboard can be removed with easy and it is resized very well.Tesla Moves Into New State-of-the-Art Supercharger Stations At Atlanta Airport Atlanta's Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport is home to more than 200,000 passengers each day and is the fifth busiest airport in the country. Its proximity to more than 40 million people means that it is a prime location for Tesla Supercharger stations. The new location on its "Science Park 2" site is Tesla's fifth large-scale Supercharger station in North America. The station will be the first one to feature drive-up access. From now on, all Tesla drivers will be able to use the station's drive-up gate and charge their vehicles without having to worry about traffic congestion or finding a parking spot. Tesla CEO Elon Musk had this to say about the new station: "We can now deliver a full-electric vehicle experience to our customers on a more convenient and reliable basis with the new drive-up Supercharger station at Hartsfield-Jackson. The station will be accessible 24/7 with no need to find a parking spot or worry about traffic congestion." In addition to the company's fifth Supercharger station in the U.S., Tesla's Motorsports division plans to open a facility for drivers of the company's upcoming $400,000 Roadster. We'll see what comes of this when it finally opens later this year. The new station at Hartsfield-Jackson is currently in testing, and it will not be open to the public just yet. However, it will start
