You can perform accelerated benchmarks on any number of CPU cores in the cloud or on your own hardware. The results of each test run are available in live performance data. And the performance benchmarking software is free! It does not require any additional software, because our online performance benchmarking platform is built into our software. BenchmarkTest automatically starts and stops tests as needed. The application reports the results of tests run, showing performance data in tables and graphs. There are more than 100 tests, with tests for different categories, including speed and memory. And now with the new release of BenchmarkTest we have added new tests, an interactive benchmarking application, and more detailed results. You can now run the tests as long as you want, or save the results
